Want it to work in a different way? Please mail me at info@aintitcool.com Please mail me at info@aintitcool.comMany of you know that I was diagnosed with Multiple Myeloma three years ago. Since that diagnosis, I'm been attending a lot of Cancer Support Groups and I've found the time and money it takes to attend (and drive to) these groups to be quite difficult. I'm overjoyed to find out that the new generation of support group services out there are designed specifically for those of us that have been diagnosed with cancer. Check out the site: I really enjoy the story telling sessions that they offer. I know there's a lot of support and encouragement for others going through the same thing I'm going through, and I appreciate the chance to share my story. The only complaint I have about the service is the cost. The membership is $22 per month. It may be better to try a one month "let-us-show-you-the-neighborhood" trial period before committing to the monthly fee. Thanks for stopping by and providing this info, EJ! I clicked on your site and want to encourage you to keep providing us with your information and insights about your illness, as well as the hardships you've faced and how you've navigated them. We all have our unique journey, and I'm glad I found you. I went through the cancer support group thing myself. Just wanted to state that I think its a fabulous idea,

In audio-visual co-modulation the sounds are played at the same time as the images are displayed. The sounds create a sense of co-operation between the images and sounds as the two components work together to build up a complex auditory experience. The sounds are the heart of this technique. Other aspects are the focus on the visual field, the relationship between sound and image, and the control of the ratio of sounds to images displayed, or their relative strength. Applications The early use of this technique has included Cage's Early Concerts of 1952. Cage used a number of instruments, including light bulbs, milk bottles and melodic objects. Later used with pianos and other instruments it was employed by Edgar Varela in the composing of Viramundo in 1961. Since then numerous musicians have used the technique including Ned Rorem, Donald Martino, Chris Cutler, Hans-Peter Linde and John Zorn, to name but a few. The element of visual focus is important and the possibilities of this are myriad. The earliest recordings used a simple left to right progression and similar effect 09e8f5149f
