ENC Recovery is one of the best recovery tools that gets rid of lost data and helps you recover your important files that were stored in a flash drive or a portable drive. It will make sure that your important data is at your control. This program has a very simple UI and can be used by even novices. The best thing about this software is that it works without making any changes to your hard disk. So you don't have to fear that your hard disk will get damaged while you are trying to recover lost data. You can recover lost data in two different ways in which you can recover your files at your will and the other you can recover them automatically. With the first option you can choose the recovery mode in which you want your lost files to be recovered with. For instance, you can choose the "uncompressed" mode or the "zip" mode or you can just let the automatic mode do its job. The second option is only for those who are really lazy and are not that competent to select the data recovery mode on their own. This option is all about automatic scanning that will be done for your hard drive with this tool. So you don't have to worry about getting back your files. The automatic scanning will be done and the software will do that for you.
